In Memoriam

"Sleeping in the rain and sunshine where they scattered plums and garments fade in the rain and sunshine".

A great Chief, Illini Indian brave, has answered the call of the Great Spirit.

In the tribal councils, on the war path, in the hunting we will miss his good cheer, for there is none to take his place.

His people have loved and honored him for his friendliness, his comradeship, skill and achievements.

From the blows of Mitchie Manito, the evil one, he rose to carry on the end courageous and unafraid.

We will paint a Totem to him so that his exploits on the shooting field may have a record and that the memory of this great Chief and warrior may never fade. The fires have been lighted for you, Chief, and it is the wish of all the Illini that you find the "Happy Hunting Grounds" in truth and eternity of happiness.
